

Did North Korea test a new hypersonic intermediate-range missile?

The Associated Press North Korea said Wednesday it had tested a new hypersonic intermediate-range missile powered with solid propellants, extending a run in weapons demonstrations that's deepening a nuclear standoff with neighbors and the United States.

What is driving North Korea's unstoppable military buildup?

What's Driving North Korea's Unstoppable Military Buildup? Facing a security dilemma, the Indo-Pacific region needs dialogue and de-escalation, not further confrontation and escalating tensions. On October 31, North Korea fired its newest and most powerful intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM), the Hwasong-19, into the ocean off its east coast.

Could North Korea test a nuclear weapon again?

North Korea on Monday claimed to have again tested a missile that could become one of the world's fastest and most accurate weapons - with the potential to ultimately be fitted with a nuclear warhead.

Can North Korea launch hypersonic warheads on solid-fuel rockets?

While North Korea had initially tested its hypersonic warheads with liquid-fuel systems, the ability to load them on solid-fuel rockets would allow for faster launches and operation, said Chang Young-keun, a missile expert at South Korea's Research Institute for National Strategy.

Does North Korea have hypersonic IRBMs?

"North Korea's development of hypersonic IRBM targets Guam, which hosts U.S. military bases, and even Alaska." Tensions in the region have risen since 2022 as Kim used Russia's invasion of Ukraine as a distraction to accelerate his testing of missiles and other weapons.

Will North Korea's nuclear and missile program increase Kim's perception of bargaining powers?

North Korea's nuclear and missile program is now much more advanced, which would increase Kim's perception of his bargaining powers.

North Korea boasted that the new intercontinental ballistic missile it just test-launched is "the world's strongest," a claim seen as pure propaganda after experts assessed it ...

North Korea's military has come under the spotlight after the United States joined South Korea and Ukraine this week to accuse Pyongyang of dispatching thousands of troops to Russia, potentially ...

North Korea has tested a new solid-fuel hypersonic missile with intermediate range, it said on Wednesday, in an intensifying race for the next generation of long-range rockets hard to track and ...

North Korea on Tuesday morning launched an intermediate-range ballistic missile (IRBM), known as the Hwasongpho-16B, and stated that it was a new type of "solid-fuelled ballistic missile loaded ...

Web: <https://purelysolar.co.za>