

A server chassis is a metal structure that is used to house servers in various different form factors, making it possible to put multiple servers and other storage and peripheral equipment in a ...