Is solar energy a sustainable technology in Sweden?

The Swedish solar cell market is still limited, with solar energy accounting for around 1 per cent of the total energy generated. In the transition to a sustainable society, wave power may be an important technology in the future, but it is still relatively undeveloped - both in Sweden and abroad.

How many solar panels will be installed in the new Swedish Solar Park?

More than 31,000 solar panels will be installed in the new Swedish solar park, which occupies 44 hectares. The solar park will be established with a tracker system allowing the panels to follow the movement of the sun, which helps optimise energy production.

How much solar energy does Sweden produce?

In Sweden we have the capacity to output approx. 1,000 kWh of solar energy per square metre. As we have clean air, a cooler climate and periodic snow which reflects solar radiation, a solar cell plant at our latitudes can produce just as much as a facility in Central Europe. South of the Alps the power output is higher, up to 2,500 kWh.

Why should we invest in solar energy in Sweden?

"Sweden is an important region for the development and production of more solar energy, and we share the ambition to speed up the energy transition. We look forward to strengthening the production of solar energy in southern Sweden, where our new solar park in Lindsberg is the first of several projects that we are now building.
