

The Swedish company's labs form the largest campus for battery research in Europe. It's here, in a former industrial zone on the outskirts of the town of Västerås, about 100 kilometres northwest of the capital Stockholm, that one of the continent's best-funded climate tech companies could write the future of batteries.

The battery maker has received some 600 million Swedish kronor ($56 million) in government grants. The limits to Sweden's intervention-light approach are now coming into view. Busch told reporters last month that she'd contacted both the Commission and the German government, where Northvolt is building a factory.

The Swedish battery maker explained further that the insolvent company is just one of over 20 different entities within the Northvolt Group. The halting of plans and insolvency claim, according to the statement, will enable the Group to concentrate its resources towards "accelerating production in large-scale cell manufacturing within the ...

Swedish battery startup, Northvolt, has reportedly developed an EV battery made of sodium-ion that doesn't involve in-demand and expensive materials that current batteries require (e.g. lithium-ion batteries). This breakthrough could solve the constraints posed by current battery production requirements and cut the costs of production as well.

The sums involved are much smaller than the 15 billion Swedish crowns ($1.44-billion) that Swedish media had reported Northvolt was looking for a few months ago, or the 7.5 billion crowns it was ...

Scaling up Swedish battery companies. Scaling-up production was also the driver for the EU bank's backing for Northvolt's electric car battery. With an InnovFin-backed loan from the European Investment Bank, the company built a demonstration line of its concept in Västerås, not far from Stockholm. That factory started producing the new ...

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) -Battery maker Northvolt said on Monday it would suspend cathode active material production at its gigafactory in Sweden and cut costs under a plan that could lead to job losses as the company scales back its rapid expansion. Billed as a frontrunner in Europe's effort to build a battery industry of its own, Northvolt is focusing on its ...
