

As we will learn later, audio and video equipment racks should be isolated from grounded objects and then grounded through a Technical Ground System. One way to accomplish this is to ...